How to limit your search to full text and peer reviewed journal articles in ProQuest and EBSCO library databases.

With the ProQuest interface, you can check off full text and/or peer reviewed checkboxes on the initial search page.

If you’re in the middle of a search, you can also narrow down to full text articles or peer reviewed articles on the left side of your results list.

ProQuest also uses icons to identify source types:

If you need peer reviewed articles, use the Peer Reviewed limiter, not just the scholarly (🎓) icon.
Want to know more about peer-reviewed articles? This handout has more information!